To Market, To Market

Armed with Jam dollars - Scouts and Future Scouts crowded the marketplace for Market Day, part of Super Saturday.

Noise and chaos greeted visitors as Troops set up their market stalls around the turning circles in their sub-camps. Each Troop set out to make as much noise as possible to encourage visitors to the stall, with the aim of making the most money. Some Scouts (and Leaders) were particularly good salespeople - as the saying goes, they'd be able to sell ice to Eskimos!

There was no ice for sale that JNN Daily saw, although the day was warm enough to need it. There were many food stalls - popular items were sherbet, fairy bread, and popcorn of many flavours (I'm still a bit wary of the "mystery popcorn" of A204!)

Handmade items were big sellers. Many of the items had been made at pre-Jamboree camps. Paracord bracelets and keyrings were available at stacks of stalls, and woggles of all varieties could be found around the place, like the upcycled woggles from C432 made from old cutlery! Loom bands, cards, pins, and even watermelon helmets were all waiting to part you from your Jam dollars.

Beauty enhancements were in high demand, ranging from coloured hair spray and braiding, to coloured nails. Many of the JNN Daily team had their nails painted - we're a very colourful team now. Although our painted nails aren't as impressive as our Editor Hutcho's new pigtails!

If you'd felt like a game of chance instead, there were many stalls to cater for your needs. Ball tosses, raffles, and cane toad racing were just a few!

For something more adventurous, you could have tried the various wet sponge throws or a bungee slip and slide. For best results, wearing your watermelon safety helmet was recommended.

Other imaginative stalls sold items like Zombie hunting permits, duct tape to stick your Leader to the wall, or imaginary friend adoptions.

Were you one of the Scouts who carefully planned out what you'd buy with your Jam dollars, or did you spend it all at once? Whichever the case, we're sure Market Day will be remembered for years to come!

Rossimus Maximus

T'was on Super Saturday, legions of Scouts
 Jostled with Cub-Scouts and – market-day touts, as a cohort of parents arrived (like the Galles);
 filling pathways and frat tents, and campsites and malls.

Clever Rossimus Maximus – keen to make sales – was flogging his merchandise and telling tales, as the buyers lined up and his badges were selling,
 his helmet was aching as his large head was swelling!

The arena that night saw a great celebration as Scouts came together from all round the nation to ride the wave's crest and be part of the Gang.
 They all sang their best – it went off with a 'bang'!

Clever Francis and Arthur and Charlotte and Jack used a fake back-stage pass to proceed round the back;
 where they spied Scouts in costumes, the band, the narrator but were soon chased away by a 'mad gladiator'.

100 years of Cubs

2016 marks the 100 year anniversary of the start of the Cub Scout Section by Baden Powell. There will be a National celebration day on July 31. Tricia Shaw, NSW Cub Commissioner, said that Groups should check with their Regional Cub Commissioner for details and dates that celebrations will occur. Other States should check with their respective Commissioners.

Lone but not Alone here at AJ2016

On Super Saturday, past and present members of Lone Scouts gathered together to meet and compare experiences as a Lone Scout. Lones from across three states converged on the International Centre, where they were even lucky enough to have a NSW Lone Scout Queen Scout Awardee from the 60's in attendance. There were Lone Cub Scouts, Lone Scouts, Lone Venturers, and Lone Rovers, as well as Lone Scout Fellowship members and past members of Lone Scouts in attendance.

The opportunity was taken to invest a new member into NSW Lone Scout Fellowship of Martyn Challionor, who was invested as a Rover Knight here at AJ2016.

SA Lone Scouts celebrated their Centenary in 2013 and NSW Lones have celebrated their Centenary last year.

Lone Scouts is available in most states and is available for those who cannot attend Scout Sectional meetings. For further information please check with your State Office.

Focus on the Action

By now, you've probably noticed the JNN TV broadcasts happening each day in the Mini Arena. But have you also found the JNN Stunt Base and JNN Video Base surrounding it?

At the JNN Stunt Base, Patrols can be filmed doing several different stunts. One is an illusion stunt where JNN film you disappearing into a barrel and reappearing in the box alongside. Or if action scenes are more your thing, you can be filmed sliding over the bonnet of a car!

You're filmed by the JNN crew who will then edit the video, add special effects and music, and upload it to the JNN TV YouTube channel. Cooper Highett (C411) enjoyed his time at the base. "I like the idea and setup. They made it very easy to understand."

At the JNN Video base, your Patrol begins by watching a video showing tips on filming and examples of videos made by other Scouts, You then rent a video camera, come up with your brilliant short film idea, go out and shoot. Once you have enough footage, you come back to base and edit your video to make it fantastic! The best videos are entered into the Jamboree Video Awards, randomly shown on the big screen in the Mini Arena and uploaded to the YouTube channel (JNNTV1).

Super Saturday was a blast, with a wide range of people visiting theCrate, from Joeys, Cubs and Scouts right through to Venturers, Rovers, Leaders and parents.

It was awesome to see everyone's excitement with the YPR concepts being promoted. Shout out to Jack from troop A225, your enthusiasm and understanding is unrivalled, and we were honoured to see you jumping in and helping theCrate staff on tours around theCrate. A quick poll of Crate staff showed that over half had been on a tour with Jack.

As Cataract Park cleared and the sun started to set, theCrate staff found themselves armed with water pistols. It was on, a water battle of epic proportions, stretching from theCrate right down to the Mini Arena. You had to see it to believe it - crazy people in Crate t-shirts running around and laughing like lunatics, sopping wet. Armed with an assortment of water pistols and buckets, it was the perfect finish to a hot and busy day.

So Scouts and Leaders, while the Jamboree still runs, so does theCrate. Continue to come on in and see the latest program concepts that Scouting has to offer for the future, and tell us what you think and what you want! theCrate awaits...

Future Service Leader Day

Eight and a half-year-old Cameron Woodgate was Deputy Deputy Director of Support Services for a day, shadowing his dad, Deputy Director Michael, around site on Saturday. When Cameron was asked what his job was he said "driving people around". It turns out it is a little more complicated than that, but he said he had a great day exploring the camp site. He also managed to find the time to have a look around with his Cub Pack and buy his Tassie Devil toy. He was excited to visit the Media Centre to see where the newspaper is made and was enthusiastic to make his own someday.

Cameron is hoping to attend his own Jamboree in 2019 where he is looking forward to "buying more soft toys" and completing water based activities like Challenge Valley.

Future Scout Day

Market Day

Future Scout Day

Roll up, roll up, Joeys, Cubs, Scouts, Mums and Dads for AJ2016's Super Saturday. Over 3000 Future Scouts arrived at Cataract Park from around Australia on Saturday morning. While some had come to visit a Scout sibling, there were many who came just to see what we have been up to for the past week and what future Scouts are in for.

Future Scouts arrived and were given their packs, complete with camp blanket, AJ2016 badge and 10 Jam Dollars to spend at Market Day. Large numbers of Cubs were seen walking the site with their Packs or parents, looking at all of the Scouts' stalls, having a go on the jumping castle and going on the hugely popular adventurous activities, water slides, flying fox and rock climbing. Cubs were seen enjoying all of the mini games at Australiana Village. Candle making and gold panning were of particular interest, with Future Scouts excited with their gold finds.

Cirque du Scout had a great show for the whole family, giving a display of all of the amazing stunts being performed and taught to the Scouts on site. From juggling to unicycling, diablo to acrobatics, every future Scout had a different favourite act. Terry Hills Cubs, Tom Hort and Sam Keller, said the performance was "amazing" and "mind boggling".

The Percy family, from Queensland, brought their four Future Scouts on a week long camping trip to visit their Scout. Their eldest future Scout, Wilson, has been so excited to be a Cub that during their camping trip he spent a night in a swag, by himself.

We look forward to seeing all the future Scouts in Adelaide at AJ2019!

Thanking the Logistics Team

From poppers to pancakes, and bananas to biscuits, the Logistics team works hard to ensure that Scout stomachs are full throughout the Jamboree. It's safe to say the hub of organised chaos is one of the hardest working teams at Cataract, deserving of high praise for the constant supply of Tim Tams and coffee.

Stuart is deputy director of the Logistics team and, to our great appreciation, took some time out of his busy schedule to speak to JNN Daily about his job and team. He describes it as being all very integrated, each step in the process being just as important as the last. "But people are the key," he points out. "We are very fortunate to have a great team of volunteers."

The whole process began in 2012, when key roles were appointed. Since then, email correspondence and team meetings have steadily increased as the event drew nearer. Costco comes on board as the major provider of the Jamboree, with additional minors such as Nestle. Constituting a seven digit number, the amount of food processed by the Logistics Team is phenomenal. Trucks arrive early morning, and supplies are provided to Q-Stores from the Logistics Hub neighbouring the main entrance to Cataract.

Stuart is in constant demand throughout our interview, epitomising just how busy those in Logistics are. Nevertheless, they push through the stress to deliver all of the food so conveniently available to you after a long day at the Jamboree. And with a smile, no less.

Jamboree Gang Show Wow!

The Jamboree Gang Show was a mash of 18 Gang Shows, from across Australia and New Zealand that was two years in the planning and making. Members trained and rehearsed the 16 Acts via YouTube in their homes, halls and lounge rooms, and pulled together a marvellous performance after only one day of full rehearsals together.

Accompanied by a 20 piece orchestra, the show started with the whole cast singing and dancing to Uptown Funk to a packed arena.

The 12 Pains of Social Media portrayed the changing (freaked out) moods of signing up to Facebook, with photos, shares, selfies and pokes sung to the traditional chords of Countdown to Christmas.

Australia, Be Proud had us singing to the strains of I am Australian, as the dance and costumes traced Australia's heritage. "Only in Australia, we are more concerned with what brings us together than what sets us apart."

Scouting is the Life started with a typical visit of a Leader to the Scout Shop. The crowd was boo-hooing when the only item available at the shop was a Girl Guide woggle. A fantastic number, sung in the round about going camping and Camp Jamboree, celebrating life as Scouts and Guides. A letter home to 'Dear old mother' had the audience in giggles about writing home to Mum about the fabulous changing weather on the Jamboree.

Wheelie Night gave us an educational lesson on the uses of the different coloured wheelie bins, Caribbean style. Poor old blue bin just never got that chance to sing.

The Disco feeling to Shake That had the crowd putting on their groove thing and shakin' their booty.

Poor old blue bin once again lucked out with his song in He's Rubbish, while the Great Barrier Reef Scouts and Leaders in the crowd strongly objected to the quips on the tidiness of their Sub Camp.

Into Africa started with the Lion sleeping tonight, going into a revved up version of Circle of Life. The crowd absolutely loved this number, jumping onto their feet and getting down to the awesome beat.

The hilarious lesson in slapstick comedy gave the audience the finer points on trips, chair pulls and the plank, ending in a hilarious routine of all the different ways to cop a pie in the face.

The Funky 80s Beat Medley drew together eight of the all-time greatest 80's hits including Agadoo, Video killed the radio star, and Footloose. The leg warmers and flouro were an essential part of the costume (lucky for those fluoro Troop hats!)

A few prop dysfunctions in 'Getting Over' had cat calls from the audience trying to encourage the 'old' man to get over the gate, safely home. "He's just lost 50 years climbing over the gate!" called one Scout as they were willing him to make it over. Lucky the Rovers (who do stuff!) came by to give the old fella a hand back over the gate – unfortunately to the wrong side.

The guys dressed up as Guy-dz were 'feeling rather swell' as they cross dressed their way through a very funny, witty dance number.

The night ended with a whole crew Finale about the Scouts and Guides Gang Show, proudly wearing their uniform and belting out 'Tonight again'.

"It was amazing. I want to be in a Gang Show", were echoed by many Scouts on the way out of the arena.

The Gang Show is special to the Scouting and Guide movements, and has been running in Australia since 1952, with the first show in Brisbane. The cast and crew plan, write and choreograph the show. The support crew does sound and lighting, and makes and builds the costumes, scenery and props. To put on a gang show, start on your State site website and follow the links. Don't feel like getting on stage, but want to watch it? Then find out where your closest Gang Show is and make a bee line there in the June/July school holidays. You are promised to have a rocking good time!

Stars and Stripes Forever

Have you met the five Boy Scouts of America Leaders and one American Scout who are attending Jamboree? If you were at the International Night, you would have seen Evan on stage representing the USA!

Scout Evan Odell (A115) is from Troop 2012, a Boy Scout Troop based out of the US Embassy in Canberra. Originally from Virginia, he's been living in Australia for the last year as his family moved out here for work, and will move back to the US. His father is one of his Leaders in his Jamboree Troop. One of the differences he's noticed between Australian Scouts and his Troop is the way we do our congratulatory BRAVO – US Troops just clap. He also said his Troop is calmer, they have more merit badges and it's harder to move between ranks.

Boy Scouts in America are aged between 11 and 17 and is only open to boys. They also have Venturers, aged 14 to 21, which is open to both girls and boys.

He misses his friends back home, but is enjoying Jamboree. His favourite activity so far has been Jamberoo, even though the weather wasn't sunny. If we visit his home state of Virginia, he recommends we visit the Colonial town of Williamsburg.

Antonio, Craig, Lizzette and Roberto are all Leaders with Troop 729 from Washington Heights, USA and flew out for the event. They're all working as part of the JNN TV crew.

They spent time in Sydney before Jamboree and love Australia. They want to come back already, and they haven't even left! Their dream would be to come back and spend time visiting the Outback.

Kiwi's Jump the Ditch

There's been an influx of Kiwis, with 50 New Zealand Scouts and Leaders flying west to our shores.

JNN Daily caught up with three New Zealand Scouts from Troop A115. Gina Hillebrand, Jarrod Byrne and EJ Paulsen said the Australian Scout system was stricter in some ways, for example with sun safety measures like hats and collared shirts. They are less strict in other ways, such as being required to wear aprons while cooking. Their Scouting system differs in ways such as their merit badges, and how they lay out their campsite.

Gina misses her own music from home, while EJ and Jarrod missed the weather and campfires. However they agreed that Jamberoo had been the best activity so far.

They suggested if we go to visit New Zealand, we get out into the bush and go on treks to take advantage of their beautiful countryside.

Jamborees Highland Fling!

The wee strain of the pipes could be heard across the Mall on Super Saturday as the Scouts Pipes and Drums (Hume) played three performances.

The band was started in May 2013 and has 19 members, consisting of a Drum Major, nine Side drums, a tenor drum and base, and seven bagpipe players. They are made up of youth and adult members of the Scouts and Guides. They meet at Camden and wear the Anderson Ancient tartan, which is the only tartan to have seven colours. They play and set of music that is current and fun, such as popular campfire songs Kumbaya and Little Peter Rabbit. They perform around 12 times a year, attending the Bundanoon Highland Gathering. They are actively looking for new members in the Hume region who would like to learn the pipes or drums. No previous experience is required as you will be taught, just a keen interest to learn and be part of the fun. Scouting always presents so many different opportunities and this is yet another chance to do something different.

Behind the Scenes: JNN TV

There's two main things that JNN TV do at Jamboree – show video of the event to the rest of the world and entertain us here on site.

And we're certainly entertained! With shows such as Good Morning Jamboree, The Bean Show, Challenge It and I On Chef, the presenters draw in a crowd of eager Scouts wanting their five minutes of fame on stage. Just be careful of the JNN Patented Flour Cannon!

The crew of over thirty Venturers, Rovers and Leaders from all around Australia (and four Leaders from the USA) work hard to bring you the news that matters. You'll see them around filming stories, which are then edited and uploaded to the YouTube channel. They also live stream their daily shows, and events such as the Opening Ceremony.

Speaking of the Opening Ceremony, over 3,000 people around the world watched it live on the stream! Since Jamboree opened, their channel has had over 500 new followers!

JNN TV's control room looks like something from the deck of The Enterprise with complicated looking equipment everywhere. Audio and video feed into different mixers, allowing the operators to choose what they broadcast. They can also feed directly from the Main Arena or from the JNN FM radio station.

Outside of Jamboree, JNN TV has rebranded as Scout TV. At the moment, there are several Scout TV groups which meet regularly to practice their filming and editing skills by making videos of Scouting events. They hope to spread that model across Australia – and the world! Why go for local when you can aim for world domination?

THE VICCON DAILY

THE HOORAY MARKET DAY IS OVER ISSUE...

A233'S WEEDY LIVES A LIFE OF CRIME

EXPOSE ON SLEEPING LEADERS

A233's Weedy (who was previously arrested for using the flood to escape into a NSW waterway) escaped from the AJ2016 prison- apparently the bar spacing on the Windows was designed for Scout Leaders.

Weedy's escape was discovered within seconds as he tried to open a court session pretending to be Sir Percy. He even put a plum in his mouth when talking. The Red Coats quickly arrested Weedy and charged him with impersonating an officer of the crown and improper dress whilst occupying crown chair (no wig, no robe).

Weedy was held in the stock until his court appearance later that afternoon, where he used a moment of distraction to slip out of the guards grip and made his way to Sir Percy's chair, put on the wig and used Sir Percy's gavel to call the court to order.

Just at that moment Sir Percy entered, the guards forcibly removed Weedy, and Sir Percy Fontleroy expressed his displeasure with Weedy's antics.

The Chief Magistrate referred to Weedy as a "creature from the underworld with no regard for the King and his loyal subjects". Sir Percy found Weedy guilty as charged and warned him that he is getting off lightly on this occasion. Weedy was also issued with a set of Scout Laws and urged to live by those laws. Weedy was sentenced by Sir Percy to 20 lashes with the cat o' nine tails.

Keep the photos of the sleeping leaders coming! Your poor Leaders are starting to get tired now!

THE RUMOR FILE

Word on the street is that unscrupulous types were handing out counterfeit Jam Dollar notes yesterday. Our sources tell us that there weren't just one dollar notes, there were one hundred dollar notes too! Did you get duped?

ANSWER TO YESTERDAY'S QUICK QUESTION:

250 Weedy Sea Dragons were produced just for AJ2016! Did you buy one yesterday?

AROUND THE NSW TROOPS AJ 2016

ACT Contingent

Hi everyone, Cataract Park seemed very quiet today after the activity of Visitors Day.

We have had the ACT Contingent puzzle out again and steady progress is being made. I am not sure we are going to get it finished by the end of Jamboree but let's see now we go!

Yesterday the Awesome Foursome (NT, Tas, ACT and NZ) hosted a PL's breakfast to thank PL's for their contribution to a successful Jamboree. PL's enjoyed Danish pastries and fruit salad with ice cream. A great way to start the day.

Have you seen our ACT Contingent shirt? It features the ACT AJ2016 badge with Mt Stromlo and the Gang Gang Cockatoo. It also has the War Memorial's centenary of Anzac logo on the sleeve, if you look closely, the Corroboree frog is on the back and the purple hills around the bottom represent the Brindabella mountains.

If you have run out of clean shirts or just want to be cool, shirts are on sale at the ACT Contingent for $30.00.

Where in Cataract?

Alexander Sitkowski (D735) correctly identified the photo from Saturday, January 9 as being the Union Jack flag flying at the Australiana village. This is Alexander's second win, well done! Alexander, please come and collect your prize from the ACT Contingent. We still have prizes waiting for Lewis Creed (D719) and Clare Steele (A209) so come and see us to collect.

The photo for Monday, January 11 is:

If you know the location, submit your entry at the ACT Contingent.

Cornelius aka CCF

Cornelius particularly liked the offer of a foot rub, in response to the question "What is the best way to thank a Leader?" Other responses included:

Don't make a fuss and be good, Chocolate!, Thanking them and encouraging them, Helping out, Do their washing up for them, Give them a BRAVO, Be happy and give them camping stuff, Make them a cup of tea, Give them a badge and Say thank you.

Cornelius would like to know: "What your favourite entertainment at Jamboree has been so far?" Did you like the Opening Ceremony, Comedy Night, AJ's got talent, JNN dance party... And the list goes on. Come and let us know.

Out and About with ACT Troops

Troops were busy entertaining visitors and running their market day stalls.

Troop D707 made braided wrist bands complete with whistle, which proved popular, making lots of Jamboree dollars. C540 had a competition with their neighbours, both selling sherbet. D718 had a popping great time selling popcorn. D631 were playing aerial golf and soccer. C517 provided an intense sugar hit with cordial shots.

The ACT welfare team sampled a variety of Market Day activities, coming back with painted nails and coloured hair!

What a day we had yesterday, Super Saturday was jam packed with coloured hair, handmade craft, lots of water, and a fair bit of food.

Fun History Fact:

Andrew "Bullant" attended Jamboree at Cataract Park 30 years ago in 1986. He is at Jamboree today as a Scout Leader and has the privilege of attending with his son, Rory. Scouting is all about passing on information and experiences, what a great example of it.

Let the adventure continue tomorrow.
